The law firm of Conroy Simberg was founded over four decades ago in Hollywood, Florida. Hollywood is a suburb of Miami and Fort Lauderdale and is strategically located in between the two cities. Conroy Simberg's Hollywood office is situated approximately 25 minutes from the Miami courthouses and 15 minutes from the courthouses in Fort Lauderdale. When our founding partners Tom Conroy and Bruce Simberg were selecting the initial site for their firm, they recognized that Hollywood, Florida would be a prime location allowing them to service the legal needs of clients in Fort Lauderdale and Miami.

The Hollywood office of Conroy Simberg is, and always has been, located on Hollywood Boulevard. This office has grown from two lawyers in 1979 to more than 30 attorneys practicing across a diverse range of legal areas. Over the years our legal team has worked to develop strong and lasting relationships with the many businesses and professionals operating throughout this area of the state. We are very familiar with the local judiciary and are active members of both the Broward County and Miami-Dade communities.

The legal team in the Hollywood office counsels and defends clients in all types of liability and insurance matters, ranging from general liability and casualty cases to workers' compensation, automobile and professional liability claims. We also offer a wide range of civil defense practices, including commercial litigation, employment and environmental law. Our Hollywood location allows for easy access to courts located in Monroe, Miami, Broward and Palm Beach counties, allowing our legal team to identify important trends in how various courts rule in similar cases. This location also enables our attorneys to be assigned to different venues gaining a broader legal experience.

The Hollywood office serves as the central base of operations for Conroy Simberg's statewide practice. This centralized approach is designed to deliver consistent training and support to the legal professionals working in all of our firm's 13 office locations. Our law firm was founded on the principle of providing high-quality, responsive and personalized legal services. All of our offices are committed to this core principle and we work together as a team to ensure that regardless of where our clients are located, they receive the individualized legal representation for which our firm is known.
