Orlando is best known throughout the world for its major entertainment attractions. Every year millions of tourists and visitors travel to the Orlando area contributing billions of dollars to the region's economy. While tourism and hospitality serve as the area's largest industries, technology, advanced manufacturing, warehousing and distribution, motion picture and television production, and aviation and aerospace are also among the many strong contributors to Orlando's dynamic economy.

Recognizing the area's need for experienced legal counsel, Conroy Simberg opened its Orlando office in 1996. Today, we have over 20 attorneys in our Orlando office focused on meeting the diverse legal demands of businesses, organizations and professionals operating in Orlando and the greater Central Florida region. These attorneys bring a wide range of legal experience and knowledge to our firm. They regularly consult, support and work with lawyers throughout our firm's 13 regional locations to construct legal solutions that best serve the needs and demands of our clients.

From its inception, the legal team in our Orlando office has been committed to providing the same outstanding and individualized legal representation that our clients came to know and rely on in our Hollywood office. These attorneys develop innovative legal strategies aimed at protecting the diverse range of companies and organizations conducting business in the Orlando area. Our legal team counsels and represents clients operating across all industries, including hotels, restaurants, amusement parks, athletic, health care, and entertainment complexes and the many companies and vendors associated with such entities. With close to 130 attorneys working in 13 office locations, Conroy Simberg is well positioned to serve the unique legal needs of clients in Orlando and across the southeast.